Media Advisory

The South Dakota Department of Labor's e-Labor Bulletin, a monthly electronic publication provided at no charge, is used by businesses and individuals to assess economic conditions in the state and determine prospective business locations or places to live and work.

The e-Labor Bulletin contains feature articles about the South Dakota economy and an analysis of current labor market conditions. Various tables show such data as labor supply, labor force, nonfarm worker levels by industry, and measures of the activities of the Unemployment Insurance Division and Career Centers. Selected national economic indicators such as the Consumer Price Index (CPI) are also tabled.

Subscribers receive an e-mail notice when a new issue is available, with a link to the Labor Market Information Center's homepage, where the e-publication can be easily accessed. To subscribe, e-mail melodee.lane@state.sd.us or use the online order form at <http://www.state.sd.us/applications/LD18OrderForm/>.
